January 2019

Student Intern Presentation

On the evening of December 12th, Miles Housley, a senior at Kettle Run High School, gave a final presentation on his semester with Environmental Services through the Senior Government Internship Program. Miles spoke about modern waste management systems, recycling issues, training, and other challenges in local government and the waste and recycling industry. Miles and all of the seniors in this Fauquier County Public Schools program did a wonderful job, and their presentations were thoroughly enjoyed by those in attendance. Thank you, Miles, for your hard work during your time with our department!

Disposal of Ashes

This time of year, fireplaces and wood stoves are in frequent use for winter heating. Many County residents generate ashes as a waste. Ashes often carry residual heat, and can cause fires in our compactors and containers. To properly dispose of ashes please wet them with water before you bring them in, so that they are safe to place in the trash.

Recycle Your Small Metal

Fauquier County Environmental Services offers small metal recycling, free to County residents. These are items that are not aluminum or steel bottles and cans, and should not be placed in the bottles and cans recycling containers. Objects such as metal coat hangers, doorknobs, nails and screws, or metal tools may be placed in the small metal containers available 7 days a week, at the Corral Farm Facility and all remote collection sites.

Please be sure metal objects are clean and free of fluids, chemicals, batteries or electronic parts. Ask any site attendant for assistance.
